AMERICA AND RELIGION STUDENT CONFERENCE

The Institute of English and American Studies and the Department of Religious Studies of University of Szeged

are organizing a conference with the title

In God We Trust? - America and Religion.

The aim of the conference is to provide an opportunity for MA and PhD level students of religion and American history and culture to present and discuss their individual research.

Emphasizing the interdisciplinary nature of the conference, we welcome theoretical and analytical studies concerning history and sociology in relation to religious phenomena across South, Central, and North America. Participants may apply from any fields of study; besides professional quality, there is no restriction on their choice of subject.

The duration of the presentations is 20 minutes, the languages of the conference are English and Hungarian. Applications are expected at igwtconference@gmail.com, with the name and institutional affiliation of the lecturer indicated, and an abstract of 250-300 words. The deadline for application is March 13, 2015. An English-language volume of the conference proceedings will be published.

Accommodation will be provided in dormitories by prior arrangement.
